Your new-look 32-page bumper Anfield Review

WELCOME BACK to Anfield . . . and as a new League season swings into action, we hope that during the months to come, Liverpool will be bidding again for the major honours. We hope, also, that YOU enjoy your new-look, 32-page bumper Anfield Review.

Escalating production costs have meant—invariably—that we have been forced to increase the price of the Anfield Review; but, determined as ever to give supporters the finest possible value for their money, we have managed to add FOUR pages to the Anfield Review, so you will now get a regular, 32-page issue.

We believe this represents the best value in its field. There may be other match-day magazines larger (but only slightly) in page size, but more often than not, they are 20 or 24 pages—and some cost 30p. The Anfield Review costs less than 1p a page—and we shall make every effort to give supporters top coverage, whether it's topical stories, team news or picture specials—and, of course, the accent is always on Liverpool F.C.

This issue, for instance, puts the focus on team-manager Bob Paisley, and the players. We are also introducing a special feature, which will continue on a regular basis, showing how Liverpool's deeds during the past two decades have won them world-wide acclaim. For Liverpool have earned a reputation as THE RECORD-BREAKERS.

So stay with us—and enjoy reading about your favourite team match by match. Our 32-page regular issue will contain something for everyone!

IT MEANS LIVERPOOL LEAD AGAIN

LIVERPOOL—not for the first time—are leading the way in English football, for we have become the first club in the League to carry a brand name on the famous red jersey which is worn by the players.

The Football Association and the Football League have given Liverpool the go-ahead for the new look in Soccer, and the link with Hitachi, the electronics corporation, sets the seal on a new club venture.

Liverpool chairman Mr. John W. Smith revealed the agreement with Hitachi at a Press conference, and the news made national headlines and created a great deal of interest among other clubs, as the quotes on the right demonstrate.

Liverpool's chairman made it clear that Liverpool were "taking up the cudgels on behalf of ourselves and Soccer generally", and he referred to football as "an industry that is desperately short of money." He said: "In terms of commerce and industry, we at Liverpool are broke, but in football terms we are wealthy."

Mr. Smith stressed the need for football to gain a financial shot in the arm as he revealed that the Anfield club—"one of the leading clubs in England and in Europe"—finished up with a profit of £71,000, although total takings last season came to £2,400,000.

He drove home the point when he added: "The overheads in our game are colossal, and we have got to generate more remunerative activity off the field."

So Liverpool have blazed a new trail again in English football, and this time in a different direction. For the red jersey of Liverpool will have a distinctive look about it.

The Football Association has laid down regulations about the use of brand-name lettering, and Liverpool's use of the Hitachi motif comes well within the F.A. formula.

Other clubs will clearly follow the trend set by Liverpool with tremendous interest, and obviously the prestige of the Anfield club played a major part in Liverpool leading the way.

Liverpool have also helped to generate that "remunerative activity" to which Mr. Smith referred in another way, for when we play at Elland-road on

"Although at present we do exceptionally well, we are looking seriously at other ways and means of bringing more money into the game. I am sure what Liverpool have started will develop into a trend."

"This is the only way to keep the game financially sound, especially when some of the huge transfer fees threaten it with ruin. I think all clubs are going to have to take steps of this kind, and most of them must now be weighing up the possibilities."

—Manchester United chairman

"Football clubs are going to consider much more seriously schemes like this as time goes on. We've reached a situation where you can't afford to ignore some of these offers."

WELCOME TO BOLTON WANDERERS

● On the right, a moment for Jimmy Case to savour, as he hits his third goal of the game when Bolton played here almost exactly a year ago.

BOLTON'S first visit to Anfield, on their return to the First Division, provided Jimmy Case with a match-winning hat-trick, and the Wanderers will be seeking to avoid a similar fate again. Having established themselves in the top flight, they will be aiming for success, especially since their recent excursions into the transfer market.

Bolton discarded the image of a homespun club which relies on producing its own talent with the acquisition of two players—Len Cantello and Dave Clement—at a total cost of close on half a million pounds, and they had earlier signed winger Tadeusz Nowak from Poland.

Tonight, with at least two of the newcomers likely to be in their side, Bolton will present a new look, for they could well have rung changes in other departments, since striker Frank Worthington has been playing in the U.S. this summer, and may not yet be available, while Brian Smith was recently on the move to Blackpool, and Tony Dunne is now on the American Soccer circuit.

In addition, midfield man Peter Reid, who has had his career hampered by injuries, has been fighting to regain full fitness, and defender Sam Allardyce has been on the transfer list.

However, Bolton have persuaded Neil Whatmore to re-sign, and Alan Gowling has come back after a cartilage operation, so manager Ian Greaves should be able to choose from a squad which possesses plenty of experience.

The consistency of goalkeeper Jim McDonagh—a bargain buy from Rotherham at £10,000—has meant a long wait for Terry Poole, who joined Bolton from Huddersfield three years ago, and with Cantello and Clement as reinforcements, there is more competition for outfield places.

Long serving Roy Greaves is still at Burnden Park, and he is one of the men who have been groomed by the club and made the grade. Paul Jones is another, and Peter Nicholson cost only a modest fee when he was signed from Blackpool, while Mike Walsh was spotted by Wanderers when he was playing schoolboy football.

Willie Morgan, the former Manchester United and Burnley player, adds to Bolton's seam of experience, and midfield man Neil McNab was a costly signing from Tottenham Hotspur as Bolton made their way out of the Second Division, while David Burke staked his claim to a regular first-team spot during last season's campaign.

At one stage last season, the Wanderers were looking uneasily at the clubs below them in the lower half of the table, but they were never in serious danger of slipping straight back to the Second Division.

Although they finished with only five clubs below them, there was a handsome margin of points between Bolton and those which were relegated, for while Chelsea mustered only 20, Birmingham totalled 22 and Queens Park Rangers finished on 25, Bolton wound up with 35 points, which also put them four ahead of Derby County and one in front of Wolves.

However, Ian Greaves will be concerned to see that Bolton fare much better this season, both at home and away, for while the Wanderers won 10 games at Burnden (they drew five and lost half a dozen), they scored only two victories on tour, and lost 13 of the remaining away matches.

Only Chelsea conceded more goals away from home—they let in 50, while Bolton conceded 47—and the Wanderers were one of the lowest-scoring sides on opponents' grounds, with their tally of 18 goals.

So the close-season signings are clearly designed to bolster the defence, and Bolton's hope will be that they can boost their scoring rate as well.

ACCENT ON THE ACTION AT ANFIELD

BOLTON were put under pressure when they played at Anfield last season, and apart from that Jimmy Case hat-trick, Liverpool could have had another goal or two. This magnificent action picture shows defender Alan Hansen turned attacker—and his header went so close to notching another goal for us.

But now it's another season, another ball game... and we'll settle for a score-line that shows Liverpool as the winners—even if it's not by a three-goal margin!

THREE OF THE BEST . . . THE GOALS

THAT CLINCHED THE LEAGUE TITLE

IT was on May 8 that the League title became Liverpool's, and these three goals did the trick. Aston Villa couldn't stop the march to glory, and our marksmen were Alan Kennedy, Kenny Dalglish and Terry McDermott. There were two more games, both away, two more victories—and that meant a record, 68-point total.

SIGNING OFF—AS CHAMPIONS

LIVERPOOL signed off at Anfield last season by beating Aston Villa 3-0 and clinching the championship of the First Division for the 11th time in their history, and more than 50,000 joyful fans hailed the triumph. The players and fans saluted each other, and below, you can see the sheer happiness on the faces of Alan Hansen and Kenny Dalglish, while manager Bob Paisley (right) finally had to bow to the wishes of the crowd and take a personal salute.

MANAGER OF THE YEAR . . .

Bob Paisley sets a personal record

FOR the third time in four seasons, Bob Paisley was named Manager of the Year last spring, and he received his award of the trophy and cheque at a luncheon to mark the occasion. In fact, this third award of the Bell's Scotch Whisky trophy in four years enabled Bob to add yet another record to Liverpool's impressive list last season, and we are sure all our supporters would wish us to congratulate him on their behalf.

PLAYER OF THE YEAR

And the man they toasted... Dalglish

KENNY DALGLISH crowned another magnificent season in the English First Division by being voted Footballer of the Year by the country's sportswriters . . . and there were few who could argue with the verdict, for Kenny contributed some dazzling displays and 25 goals during a season which saw him, along with Phil Neal and Ray Kennedy, as an ever-present through 42 League matches and a dozen other games.

In the League, Kenny scored 21 goals to take his total for Liverpool in two seasons to 56 (in 115 games) and his career total to 221 goals in 440 games. And when the votes were added up, he led the way there, as well, for he received more than 60 per cent. in the poll conducted by the Football Writers' Association.

The award was made at a dinner in London, and Kenny sandwiched this personal appearance between matches against Aston Villa and Middlesbrough. In a season when Liverpool set new records, Kenny added another to the list, for he followed Ian Callaghan (1974), Kevin Keegan (1976) and Emlyn Hughes (1977) as the top player . . . which meant Liverpool had most names on this particular roll of honour.

So we had the Manager of the Year, the Footballer of the Year—and if you turn over the page, you can get an all-embracing look at the men who helped to make Liverpool the Team of the Year.

EMLYN BOWS OUT . . .

THE next time Emlyn Hughes plays at Anfield, he will be wearing the colours of another famous club . . . Wolves. For on the eve of the new season, the man who skippered Liverpool to so many of their triumphs during a dozen years at Anfield signed for the Midlands club.

The League championship, the F.A. Cup, the U.E.F.A. Cup, the European Cup—and, of course, the captaincy of club and country—all this brought the sweet taste of success for the player who joined Liverpool from Blackpool on February 28, 1967. And Emlyn Hughes has many memories of the great days he and Liverpool enjoyed together.

Emlyn arrived at Liverpool at a time when the great side of the 1960's was about to be rebuilt, after having carved its own niche in the history of the club. In a sense, he was the first of the new brigade, though players such as Ron Yeats, Ian St. John, Tommy Smith, Ian Callaghan and Chris Lawler remained to play their part for a considerable time.

When the captaincy changed hands, Emlyn Hughes became the player who led the team out, and at different times during his career at Anfield he showed he could adapt equally well to the various roles he was required to play. As a mid-field man, he had a penchant for surging forward into attack and scoring goals; he marshalled the back-four line from a position in the heart of the defence; and he switched to left-back on occasion with considerable success.

Emlyn regularly totalled up to 70 games a season, with club and country, and though last season he had the unusual experience of playing only 28 matches for Liverpool, his total of appearances for this club demonstrated his consistency through more than a decade, for he had become the overall leader, with 661 games for Liverpool.

The breakdown: 474 League appearances, 62 F.A. Cup-ties, 46 League Cup games, 79 European matches—and in a career spanning 695 games, he had scored 49 goals (all of them for Liverpool). Now, with Wolves, he will be aiming to take his overall total of games to more than 700 in the early days of this season . . . and to clock up many more, as the months go by.

THE RUSSIANS ARE COMING

Journey into the unknown, as Liverpool bid for a European Cup third-timer

THE SEEDINGS in the first round of the European Cup kept Liverpool and Nottingham Forest apart, but the luck of the draw didn't favour us when we were paired with Russian club Dinamo Tbilisi, for it means a long-distance journey into the unknown.

The one consolation for Liverpool is that the first leg at Anfield in mid-September provides a chance to chalk up a victory which can take the tension out of the long and arduous trip to Russia. For if Liverpool can score enough goals to give them a good margin, they can go into the return game with the confidence of ultimate winners.

In a way, as manager Bob Paisley said, Dinamo present opposition as formidable as Nottingham Forest did last season, considering this is the start of the competition in which Liverpool will be aiming to claim the trophy for a third time.

But Forest and Dinamo are not the only big guns in the tournament, for Real Madrid are there, and so are A.C.

GOALS THAT BROUGHT THE SWEET TASTE OF SUCCESS

... TO ANFIELD

Milan, Glasgow Celtic, Ajax, Ujpest Dozsa, Dukla Prague . . . and Kevin Keegan's club, S.V. Hamburg.

Real must meet the Bulgarians of Levsky Spartak Sofia, A.C. Milan are up against Porto, Celtic take on Partizani Tirana (Albania), Ajax meet HJK Helsinki, Ujpest Dozsa tackle Dukla Prague, and Hamburg kick off with a relatively easy tie against Reykjavik, from Iceland.

With the Russian season under way, it meant that Liverpool have been able to plan a scouting mission, so by the time Dinamo play here the Anfield Reds will have done their homework. And it looks like being another "Anfield Night" next month when Liverpool meet the champions of Russia for the first time in more than a century of European matches.

THE sweet taste of success . . . and the smiling faces belong to David Johnson and Terry McDermott, as they share a champagne toast after Liverpool's League-championship clincher against Aston Villa last May. And for both players, there was the knowledge that they had worked for their reward.

Born and bred on Merseyside, each man took the road into professional football, but the going wasn't always smooth; and even after a roundabout route which brought them together at Liverpool, there were disappointments along the way, as they found that nailing down a regular first-team place was easier said than done.

For David Johnson, especially, the League-title triumph meant he had arrived. Terry could look back on a European Cup-final night of glory in Rome (where he scored a goal) and another success in the same competition at Wembley . . . but for David, that second final, against Bruges had a bitter-sweet taste about it, because his chance of playing at Wembley vanished when he was put out of action through injury. So he was a spectator.

Last season ended on a different note, for David made 30 appearances in the League and scored 16 goals, as well as two goals in seven other matches. Six of his League goals came in the last five away games of the season. So he knew, without a shadow of doubt, that he had played his part in helping Liverpool chalk up that 11th League-championship success.

When David arrived at Anfield from Ipswich, there was the scoring partnership of Kevin Keegan and John Toshack. Then Kevin moved to Germany and "Tosh" became player-manager at Swansea. But David Johnson still had to battle to make things go his way.

At the time Liverpool retained the European Cup against Bruges, David reflected on his varying fortunes since his arrival at Anfield and summed up: "Now I really feel I'm a part of things, that I belong". And last season he reinforced his point with the goals he scored.

THE RECORD BREAKERS

THE NIGHT of Thursday, May 17, 1979, was the occasion for Liverpool to set the seal on all that had gone before, in a season of contrasting experiences. And a 3-0 victory in their final League match emphasised Liverpool's claim to be called The Record-breakers.

Appropriately the victory was achieved against Leeds United at Elland Road . . . for on a previous occasion, Leeds had taken a salute at Anfield as they had clinched a League-title success. And, indeed, until the night of May 17, 1979, Leeds had held the record for a decade.

At the end of season 1968-69, they had finished ahead of all the other First Division clubs and set new standards by totalling 67 points. So Elland Road was truly the right setting when, at the end of season 1978-79, Liverpool established a new record, by finishing with a total of 68 points.

That 3-0 victory over Leeds climaxed a season in which just about everything had happened, as Liverpool found themselves suffering disappointment in two major tournaments, after great expectations. Their dismissal by Sheffield United in the League Cup turned out to be insignificant, compared with the dramas in the European Cup, the F.A. Cup and the League.

Winners of the European Cup in two successive seasons, Liverpool began their bid to make it a hat-trick . . . and found themselves out of the tournament. For they had drawn the stiffest opposition possible, Nottingham Forest.

I WILL say I don't really expect any club this season to better that 67-point haul by Leeds when they won the League championship 10 years ago . . . Then, it was really a two-horse race between United and ourselves. Today, there are half a dozen clubs in contention. Though in my opinion it's going to take something like 65 points for a team to finish on top.

—BOB PAISLEY
(February 21, 1979)

The first leg of the European Cup-tie was played at Forest's ground, and with time looming, a 1-0 lead for Forest seemed scarcely sufficient; but a late second goal paved the way for them to go to Anfield and, despite all Liverpool's exertions, return with a 0-0 result.

So Liverpool, after six wins and a draw in the League, after their exit from the League Cup, faced the fact that, by late September, only the First Division championship and the F.A. Cup remained as their objectives. And the F.A. Cup could be forgotten until January.

As it happened, tonight's visitors were at Anfield almost exactly a year ago—for they were then the first to try their luck here after Forest had gone home rejoicing. Liverpool had beaten Ipswich 3-0 and Manchester City 4-1 away, thrashed Spurs 7-0 here, scored three goals without reply at Birmingham.

The question was: would the disappointment of that exit from the European Cup bring a hangover in the League?—Jimmy Case supplied a personal, three-goal answer as Bolton went

BACKWARD GLANCE AT LAST SEASON

You were pretty close to the mark, Bob—but for once, even you got the answer wrong!

SEASON 1968-69

1. Leeds United 67 pts.
2. Liverpool 61 pts.
3. Everton 57 pts.

SEASON 1978-79

1. Liverpool 68 pts.
2. Nottingham F. 60 pts.
3. West Brom. 59 pts.

down . . . and in their next two games, at Norwich and at home to Derby, Liverpool rattled in nine more goals.

It seemed there was a burning desire to make up for defeat in Europe by leaving every First Division club trailing in the battle for the domestic title.

Everton thought they had enhanced their own championship prospects when they won the Goodison derby game 1-0, but with the turn of the year, it became apparent that Liverpool remained the team all the others had to beat—although West Brom followed them to Old Trafford and won handsomely, as Liverpool had done.

And it was West Brom who overtook Liverpool at the top of the table. But only temporarily . . .

The F.A. Cup arrived, and Liverpool disposed of Southend, Blackburn Rovers and—in the League—West Brom. On February 21, 1979, Liverpool met Norwich at Anfield, and manager Bob Paisley was saying, in his Anfield Review message: "I wasn't complacent after we had beaten West Brom and returned to the top of the table . . . there were still 20 League matches to go. I was looking for Liverpool to take 30 out of those 40 points, which would make a total of 65."

Then he emphasised: "But you cannot look for anything more than two points from your next match, and that's exactly what we shall be doing today." Liverpool took two points from Norwich, with a 6-0 victory . . .

Bob did stick out his neck a little bit, when he said he didn't really expect any club to better the 67-point record haul of Leeds 10 years previously.

For once in his life, Bob Paisley got it wrong—because Liverpool DID overtake that long-standing record held by Leeds . . . and set new records themselves. They also went so close to Wembley.

Once again, Liverpool rallied after their F.A. Cup exit, and strung together victories over Arsenal, Wolves, Manchester United. On April 16 they lost 3-1 at Villa Park, and on May 8, they beat Villa 3-0 in the return to clinch the title . . . 40 years to the day since Bob Paisley had arrived at Anfield to become a Liverpool man for life.

Victories at Ayresome Park and Elland Road produced the final pay-off . . . 68 points, and only 16 goals conceded. So it was a record points tally, a defensive record, and a record 11th League title. In addition, Kenny Dalglish won the Football Writers' Player of the Year award, and Bob Paisley was acclaimed Manager of the Year for a record third time in four seasons. It was indeed a grand finale.

NE FOR LIVERPOOL

LIVERPOOL chalked up another milestone on their Soccer travels when they played an Israeli Select XI in Tel Aviv at the end of last season, and it was the traditional greeting of "Shalom", as chairman Mr. John W. Smith met the famous Moshe Dayan.

Now a certain Israeli international footballer is paying a return visit to Anfield—but for Avi Cohen (above), who has become a member of Liverpool's playing staff, the social side takes a back seat as he bids to make his mark in English football. Avi was signed from Tel Aviv club Maccabi, and the transfer was completed in time for him to join the pre-season training.

THOUSANDS OF £££££££'s— AND ALL TO BE WON!

IT MAY have been the close season for football, but our Development Association activities (inevitably!) have increased more and more . . . and we cannot thank our agents enough for their magnificent support, day by day, week by week.

But, of course, we cannot stand still, and our aim has been not only to maintain, but to increase the interest for our supporters. So first, let me tell you we have a new-type Bingo ticket (20p) which can pay out up to £1,000 in a single prize.

We have also launched our own club lottery, recruiting vendors which, in the main, are shops, since this is a separate operation from Bingo. We are very grateful for the response from lottery vendors, and it looks as if we have introduced another winner.

The lottery ticket is 20p (we shall keep you posted on the major prize winners and again, the top prize is £1,000. The lottery features the "rub-off" ticket and we hope some of our Anfield personalities can present £1,000 prizes to lucky winners.

Now for the Golden Goal—and another new-style ticket (15p). Indeed, let me say the Golden Goal prize money is also increased, to £250 (up £50).

So with TWO winners within a set of Golden Goal tickets, the prize money available is £500 (shared between two winners) . . . and there is the added attraction of a lucky-number feature which caters for other cash prizes.

Yes, we're out to give top value for money—and in raising revenue for the development of Anfield, we will be helping the club to carry out its proposals which, by now, have been well publicised. So in helping us you will reap the benefit.

Finally, our best wishes to Bob Paisley and the players—I'm sure we all feel Liverpool are in for another good season—and our thanks again to our agents, whom we cannot praise too highly. Thanks, also, to my staff—with a reminder that they'll be working even harder than they have done during the so-called close season!

MATCH SPONSORSHIP AND SOUVENIR PROMOTIONS

WELCOME back to Anfield . . . and I hope you all enjoy not only our first home game of the season, but the matches right through the coming months. And it's thanks to the continued success of our team that Liverpool have become acknowledged as one of the leading clubs throughout the world of football.

This fact has been confirmed in no uncertain manner by the increase in the demand for Liverpool F.C. souvenirs, and you may be a little surprised when I tell you that our international mail-order department handles literally hundreds of requests daily from fans not only in the United Kingdom and Europe, but the Far East and both the American and African continents.

John Robinson, who is my Souvenir Shop manager, tells me that during the summer months he has had a continuous flow of customers from every part of the globe, and from their conversations it is clear that they are experts on our team's performance and results.

Many of these fans who live abroad watch Liverpool's games on television, for our matches, of course, are transmitted internationally, and one American gentleman who was flying home to California made a point of calling in at the Souvenir Shop as he was on his way to Liverpool airport.

He not only bought a team shirt—he insisted on wearing it for his trip home. A little unusual, you might think, especially since the gentleman concerned plays for a local veterans' team in Los Angeles (and that's not bad going for someone at 85 years of age!).

We have found that the most popular items with our customers have been championship sweaters, players' photographs, pendants and team strips, and this is a good time to come closer to home and remind the Anfield Road End supporters that they can now benefit from the introduction of two new souvenir shops at that part of the ground.

These new developments will make it possible for us to provide a much larger proportion of the fans with souvenirs on match days.

I should like to extend a warm and sincere welcome tonight to our match sponsors, Hitachi, and to their guests. Hitachi are already well known to most fans, and they have made a substantial investment in the club over the coming season. However, in all modesty I do feel that they have chosen well, and we look forward to a very happy association.

We've got items in stock which make the ideal gifts for friends, relatives, children — or just as a treat for yourself!
